TeamMate mounting solution for Panasonic 103" plasma Offering a fuss-free manoeuvrable install solution

Based around the new contemporary range of manoeuvrable Conference units, TeamMate has developed a clever yet stylish mounting arrangement to support the latest large format 103 inch plasma display from Panasonic. Available as either a twin bay or triple bay, the credenza based unit, provides a fuss-free approach to installing the Panasonic display in any environment without the need for any major building works or permanent fixings.

The TeamMate Conference unit provides plenty of rack space for other peripherals and requires no cooling fans due to the clever TeamMate convection flow system. The Panasonic display is supported by sturdy TeamMate Totem columns with built in cable management. A comprehensive patch panel arrangement ensures that all connectivity is provided for. For those worried about how the TeamMate will blend into their business environment - an extensive range of worktop finishes are also available to match with any existing furnishings conducive for any conference session.

At first sight the unit appears as stylish office furniture; but within, lies a combination of superior rack design, and advanced layout for neat storage of video conferencing and multimedia equipment. The 14U high 19 inch rack configuration is designed for ease of equipment access and integration. The brushed stainless steel side panels and smoked Plexiglas door provide ample protection and enclosure for best of breed multimedia components.

In keeping with the TeamMate ideals each unit is meticulously assembled to a high standard of workmanship, including internal rack trays for free standing items, built in power to a 16 way power bar, comprehensive user selectable connectivity, and lockdown levelling castors.

Buying a TeamMate is not just about acquiring another piece of conference furniture, or an audio visual enclosure – but an entire experience, from outline concept to a fully specified working system. The TeamMate helps provides high level meeting participants with a fuss-free conference environment removing user anxiety and operational burden contributing to reliable and effective use of communications and conference technology time and time again.
