TeamMate launches fully mobile meeting room solutions

Specialist technical furniture manufacturer TeamMate has launched its fully mobile, self-contained stand for heavyweight flat panel displays, the VariHite Presenter.

Designed specifically to address the lack of mobility inherent in large format displays, the VariHite Presenter allows screens of up to 70" diagonal to be moved effortlessly from room to room. Supporting weights of up to 145kg, the fully loaded VariHite glides across carpeted areas and is slim enough to ease through normal doorways.

The VariHite features TeamMate's 'lift and lower' technology which ensures the screen can always be positioned at the optimal height for whoever is presenting. Once fully lowered, it's ready to be moved to its next destination. And whilst totally mobile, once in the desired position, the VariHite Presenter is absolutely secure.

The integrated rack means there is plenty of room to allow additional audio visual equipment to be simply connected and become part of the self-contained presentation solution. It can also accommodate SMART's collaborative solutions, allowing dispersed staff to meet remotely via data conference.

Jeremy Stewart, TeamMate sales & marketing director comments, "Space is an expensive resource. Meeting rooms that are used once or twice a week are becoming a luxury many organisations can no longer justify. The dilemma though, is that equipment complexity is increasing and displays are becoming larger. What VariHite does is allow a fully specified meeting room to be created in any available space in a matter of minutes."

Even where meeting rooms are retained, using the VariHite Presenter means that only one set of equipment need be bought to service several rooms, saving money on capital equipment as well as servicing costs.

Stewart sees applications for the VariHite Presenter in higher education, corporate and public sector environments. "In keeping with the rest of the TeamMate range, the design is aesthetically pleasing, blending perfectly into corporate surroundings. But the VariHite is also durable and tough enough to stand up to the more demanding needs of the education sector. And with public sector spending being squeezed, the economic benefits make it a perfect solution for incident rooms and command centres."

The VariHite Presenter arrives fully assembled and can be set up in minutes by non-technical staff, meaning the system is ready to go almost straight away.
